

International Society for the Systems Sciences (ISSS)
Dr Jennifer Wilby, VP Administration and Past President/Trustee
ISSS Office
47 Southfield Road, Pocklington, York YO42 2XE, UK
Tel. and Fax: 44-1759-302718 Email: isssoffice@dsl.pipex.com

---

February 15, 2013

To Whom It May Concern

I am writing this letter in support of Professor Ockie Bosch and confirming his key role in the work of the International Society for the Systems Sciences, as Vice President for Systems Education. The Society has benefited tremendously through his extensive network of connections with Universities, governmental research agencies and corporate sponsors in the development of Systems Education programs for our membership, and in particular the development of prospective postgraduate students. His esteem in these areas have enabled the Society to extend systemic learning and practice through the facilitation of these programs and also the facilitation of meetings and conferences on three continents in the past four years.

We are indebted to Professor Bosch in this facilitation of our work, despite the heavy responsibilities of his many academic and research duties in Australia and overseas with governments in Europe and South East Asia.

I can attest that Professor Bosch has extensive influence within the systems community and beyond, through the application of his research and teaching and would be more than happy to send any further information regarding our knowledge of his stature that may be required in your evidence gathering process.

Yours sincerely

Dr Jennifer Wilby
Senior Lecturer, Director Undergraduate Programmes
University of Hull Business School
VP Administration, Past President and Trustee, ISSS
President Elect, United Kingdom Systems Society
Academician, International Academy for Systems and Cybernetic Sciences

