Dear Friend

“The Barr Smith Library is the educational resource with which I test my ability to learn and understand. It is the engine of my academic endeavour and the cathedral of my intellectual devotions.” The words of Farley Wright, Postgraduate Student of the University of Adelaide, are a powerful reminder of the Library’s significant contribution to academic excellence, intellectual curiosity and human advancement.

The Barr Smith Library has inspired a long history of generous giving. The original Barr Smith Library building was constructed with funds gifted by Tom Elder Barr Smith in 1927 and the rich collection as it is today has been built up with the help of many bequests and donations over the last century. These contributions have provided invaluable resources for generations of scholars in the past and into the future.

Today, more than ever, maintaining and developing the collections to support adequately the needs of the community present many challenges. As the major research library in South Australia, each year we must purchase well over 10,000 volumes, as well as resources in electronic and other formats, merely to keep up with current requirements.

I am now seeking your support for the Barr Smith Library collections. All donations are tax-deductible and a gift of $50.00 or more will be acknowledged with a named bookplate or web acknowledgement for electronic formats. You may nominate a specific area to benefit from your gift. To donate please complete the attached form and return it to the University in the enclosed reply paid envelope.

I am sure you will agree, your gift is not just a financial contribution – it is an investment in the intellectual capital of the University of Adelaide and South Australia.

Yours sincerely

RAY CHOATE
University Librarian

“The Barr Smith Library is one of the glowing gems of Adelaide. I heartily urge you to support this appeal - your gift will make a difference.”

Thomas Shapcott, Professor in Creative Writing, The University of Adelaide
