

Government of Western Australia
Department of Mines and Petroleum

Graduate Geologists Wanted

The Department of Mines and Petroleum is looking for young and dedicated geoscientists to fill two positions in its inaugural Geological Survey Masters Program (GeM Program). The GeM Program allows you to work in a leading public-sector agency while completing a Masters of Science degree.

The GeM Program at a glance

- Two-year fixed-term contract with the Geological Survey Division of the Department of Mines and Petroleum, while completing a Masters of Science degree at the Centre for Exploration Targeting, University of Western Australia
- Possibility of permanency upon successful completion of Masters degree
- Salary from $56,492 per annum, plus 9 per cent superannuation
- University fees fully reimbursed upon successful completion of units
- Training and development opportunities
- Access to network of young professionals and support base.

Applicants must already hold an Honours degree in geoscience (or be completing it this year) and have an interest in mineral systems and exploration.

For more information visit www.dmp.wa.gov.au listed below or contact:

Don Flint (Manager – Commodities and Industry Analysis) on 9222 3624 or Rachelle Jarvis (Senior Project Coordinator) on 9222 3866