

FACULTY OF THE PROFESSIONS GRADUATE ATTRIBUTES 2007

Bachelor of Business Information Technology

Knowledge

- 1) An understanding of the application of information technology to the development of business solutions
- 2) The knowledge for a career in the development, implementation and management of business information systems
- 3) A general understanding of accounting, economics, information systems, electronic commerce, computer science, computer systems, database management, software engineering, networks and data communications

Intellectual and social capabilities

- 1) Developed skills in business problem analysis and the design and development of information systems
- 2) Good literacy, numeracy, oral communication, interpersonal and decision-making skills
- 3) The ability to keep up-to-date in the discipline of information systems
- 4) Confidence in their skills levels
- 5) Teamwork and leadership capabilities
- 6) Good work habits

Attitudes and values

- 1) Awareness of the ethical standards expected of information systems professionals
- 2) Being informed about social, moral and cultural issues in Australia and the rest of the world