WRI RESEARCH SHOWCASE 2019
PHOTO COMPETITION

Want to share your research images with your colleagues and the world? Keen for a chance to win cold hard $$$?

Then why not shoot some photographs of your research and enter our 2019 Research Showcase photo competition?

What we're looking for

The aim is to produce an image to share your research with a general audience. Your photo can include scenes of you out in the field, at the lab bench – anywhere, as long as it conveys some aspect of your research. Be as creative as you like!

Judging and prizes

The WRI Showcase Committee will select the best entries per category received by the due date for display on the day. These will then be voted on by attendees, and the first and second most popular choices will win prizes of $500 and $250 respectively.

Judging criteria

Finalists will be selected on the clarity with which their photo and caption conveys their research and its outcomes or impact. Images can be in colour or black & white, but no special effects, manipulation or filters are allowed.
