Practising non-violence in education

Magnus Haavelsrud is Professor Emeritus at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology and Distinguished Fellow of the South African Research Chair in Development Education, University of South Africa. His work deals with the critique of the reproductive role of education and the possibilities for transcendence of this reproduction in light of the traditions of educational sociology and peace research. He took part in the creation of the Peace Education Commission of the International Peace Research Association and served as its Second Executive Secretary in 1975-79. He worked at the School Program of the Institute for World Order in New York and served as the Carl-von-Ossietzky Guest Professor of the German Council for Peace and Conflict Research. He has been a member of (1) Transcend International since 1993, (2) Editorial Board of Journal of Peace Education since 2004, (3) Global Advisory Group of Human Dignity and Humiliation Studies since 2008, and (4) Patron of International Centre of Nonviolence Australia since 2013.

MC: The Hon. Rev. Dr Lynn Arnold, AO
Further particulars: Prof. Ghil’ad Zuckermann, ghilad.zuckermann@adelaide.edu.au

Supported by the International Centre of Nonviolence Australia, and by the Faculty of Arts of the University of Adelaide.

Photo credit: Stormy Galiyala (=Port Lincoln), South Australia, 25 July 2015, Photographer: Professor Ghil’ad Zuckermann, WADLADA is a word in the Barngarla Aboriginal language (currently being reclaimed), which means both ‘tree’ and ‘communication’