1. Overview

The University is subject to the provisions of State and Commonwealth Equal Opportunity and Anti-Discrimination legislation. The Disability Discrimination Act, 1992 (DDA) - available at www.comlaw.gov.au - deems that people with a disability have a right to equal participation in all aspects of life enjoyed by the broader community. It is unlawful to discriminate against a person on the grounds that he or she has a disability.

2. Scope

This Policy applies to students who identify as having a disability and who provide the University with a verification statement from a health professional, and to academic and general staff who deal with students with disabilities over teaching and assessment.

3. Definitions

Amended Dec 06

Alternative Examination Arrangements (AEA) refer to examinations arranged for students on an individual basis where a variation to standard times and/or conditions is necessary to accommodate functional limitations resulting from a temporary or permanent disability or medical condition. Refer to the Alternative Examination Arrangements Policy available at www.adelaide.edu.au/policies/63

School is used in this policy as the generic term for an academic area or unit, such as School and Discipline.

This Policy uses the following definitions from the Disability Discrimination Act, 1992 (DDA):

Disability in relation to a person means:

- a Total or partial loss of the person's bodily or mental functions; or
- b Total or partial loss of a part of the body; or
- c The presence in the body of organisms causing disease or illness; or
- d The presence in the body of organisms capable of causing disease or illness; or
- e The malfunction, malformation or disfigurement of a part of the person's body; or
- f A disorder or malfunction that results in the person learning differently from a person without the disorder or malfunction; or
- g A disorder, illness or disease that affects the person's thought processes, perception of reality, emotions or judgement that results in disturbed behaviour;

And includes a disability that:

- h Presently exists; or
- i Previously existed but no longer exists; or
- j May exist in the future; or
- k Is imputed to a person.

Direct discrimination is where people with a disability are treated less favourably because of their disability.

Indirect discrimination is where a policy or practice that appears neutral has an unequal or disproportionate effect on people with disabilities.

Reasonable adjustments to assessment are variations to assessment tasks including additional time in examinations, providing examination questions in alternative formats, (e.g. audio-tape, Braille), extending due dates for assignments, doubling loan periods for library items, provision of specialised equipment, substitution of one assessment task for another of equivalent academic merit, and provision of support.

Reasonable adjustments to teaching are variations in course delivery including audio or video recording of lectures, provision of personal notes or copies of overheads to students, provision of sign language interpreters, and using accessible venues.

Special measures permit the implementation of affirmative action programs or measures on the basis that treating students with disabilities in an identical way to students without a disability does not ensure equity between the two groups.

Unjustifiable Hardship: If a person with a disability can satisfy the inherent requirements of a course, reasonable adjustments must be made unless they impose unjustifiable hardship on the University. An assessment of unjustifiable hardship must consider:

- a The nature of the benefit or detriment likely to accrue to or be suffered by any persons concerned;

- b The effect of the disability on the person concerned;
- c The financial circumstances and the estimated expenditure required by the University to make the required reasonable adjustments.

4. Policy Principles

Amended Dec 2006

- a Students with disabilities should have the opportunity to realise their individual capabilities and gain access to and participate fully in university life.
- b Students are not required to disclose the name of their disability, except to Counselling and Disability Services.
- c Reasonable adjustments are made to accommodate students with disabilities without compromising the academic standard or essential nature of the course:
  - i Students with disabilities are subject to standard rules and procedures regarding assessment and teaching. Variations are only available where the student can demonstrate disadvantage as a result of disability;
  - ii Adjustments are intended to minimise any competitive disadvantage that a person experiences as a result of their disability, rather than provide a competitive advantage.
- d Where a student with a disability fails to meet the course objectives (with appropriate reasonable adjustments in place), a Fail grade will be recorded.
- e If a staff member believes a student cannot meet the inherent requirements of a course due to a disability, he or she must inform the relevant Head of School for referral to the appropriate Executive Dean and Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Vice-President (Academic).

- b Monitor and evaluate outcomes in accordance with the University's Disability Action Plan.

5.6 Examinations Office

It is the responsibility of the Examinations Office to:

- a Provide required accommodation and supervision in alternative examination venues.
- b Inform supervisors of the student's procedural variations within the examination.
