OVERVIEW

The purpose of the policy is to ensure the University benefits from the consistent and coherent promotion of the University's brand and to minimise risk from the misuse of the brand.

SCOPE AND APPLICATION

This policy applies to all branding by the University's organisational units, staff, title holders, students, and use of the University brand by affiliated or external individuals or bodies.

The approved University brand is detailed in the University Brand Standards and covers all representations that identify the University, including its official title (The University of Adelaide and Adelaide University), the University logo, trade marks, slogans, business names and domain names. The University's approved brand can include the name of a University organisational unit within the parameters specified in the University Brand Standards.

Branding that introduces a new visual identifier (for example, logo, colour or domain name) outside the specifications of the University Brand Standards is not allowable unless approved in accordance with this policy by the Vice-Chancellor & President and associated artwork is approved by the Chief Marketing Officer.

Creation of University 'other brands', regardless of whether or not the crest or other traditional University visual identifiers are incorporated, potentially detracts from the impact and recognition of the University's approved brand. This policy seeks to minimise the proliferation of University 'other brands' in order to protect and promote the University approved brand as the dominant visual manifestation of the University's identity.

This policy should be read in conjunction with the legislation relating to brand and trademark protection, namely the University of Adelaide Act 1971 (SA), the Trade Marks Act 1995 (Cth), the Copyright Act 1968 (Cth) and the University Brand Standards.

POLICY PRINCIPLES

1. The brand of The University of Adelaide is a valuable asset. Staff and title holders are required to act in ways that promote and protect the brand.
2. Organisational units, staff, title holders, students, and affiliated or external individuals or bodies carrying out activities that would enhance the University's reputation are strongly encouraged to acknowledge the University by using the approved brand as set out in this policy and the University Brand Standards.
3. Use of the approved brand or any University 'other brand' by affiliated or external individuals or bodies must be approved and governed by agreement with the University.
4. University organisational units may be named alongside the University brand as long as this complies with the University Brand Standards.
5. In very limited circumstances, University 'other brands' (including business and domain name registration) may be created where significant commercial or other advantage can be demonstrated. Refer to the University of Adelaide domain name guidelines.
6. University 'other brands' may not be created or used without approval. Requests for approval of University 'other brands', including those for wholly owned entities of the University, must be accompanied by a supporting business case.
7. Non-compliance with this policy will be addressed through the University's disciplinary procedures and may also be subject to sanctions under the relevant legislation.
8. Any manufacturer, retailer or vendor producing or selling merchandise bearing the University's brand must either be licensed or contracted by the University to produce such branded merchandise. The use of the brand must also comply with the University Brand Standards.
9. Any use of the University's brand must comply with relevant legislation, University policy and the University Brand Standards (<http://www.adelaide.edu.au/brand/>).

TRANSITION PROVISION

By 31 December 2010, all branding must comply with this policy. All uses of the University approved brand must comply with the University Brand Standards. Any ongoing use of proposed University 'other brands' must be approved in line with this policy.
