seek LIGHT

“ I have aspired to be a lawyer since Year 10. When subject choice was necessary in Year 11 I looked to see what would be helpful in order for me to study law through Adelaide Law School.

I created a vision board that reminded me every day of what I wanted to achieve and where I wanted to achieve it. Everything aligned and now I am here studying law at the University of Adelaide... I couldn't be happier.”

Jarrad Napier Bachelor of Health Sciences
with Bachelor of Arts with Bachelor of Laws

Law

There are few disciplines that are more challenging or satisfying than law.

Due to the high-level analytical skills developed and knowledge acquired throughout a law degree, graduates are sought after not only in the legal profession but also in other areas of employment, including the commercial, government and non-government sectors. Adelaide Law School students experience a stimulating, challenging and rewarding environment in which to study law.

Student support

The Professions Adelaide Advantage

Employers expect graduates to not only be knowledgeable in their field, but also be ready to solve problems, show a high degree of emotional intelligence, be able to communicate effectively and demonstrate leadership.

The Professions Adelaide Advantage is designed to help students develop skills, make the most of the co-curricular opportunities that the faculty offers, and ultimately enhance each student's self-development and employment potential. Over the duration of their degree, students who register for the Professions Adelaide Advantage program accumulate status points in certain extracurricular activities, all of which are designed to enhance students' experience, business connections, friendships and future careers.

Go to: www.adelaide.edu.au/professions and select The Adelaide Advantage.

Student ambassador program

When you register for the Adelaide Advantage, you will automatically become a student ambassador, with access to industry networking events, international travel opportunities, volunteering, internships, work placements, social events, professional workshops and much more.

For more information visit: www.adelaide.edu.au/professions, select Current Students from the menu, then Undergraduate Students and Student Ambassador Program.

First year induction program

Students have the opportunity to meet with past University of Adelaide law graduates, talk with academic staff and join the Lex Salus program. There is also the chance to hear about the Adelaide University Law Students Society and other support and networking events available to Adelaide Law School students.

Academic course and student advisers

Academic course and student advisers are available to offer advice to students about how to structure a degree. Various academic staff can also assist with elective selection.

Student workshops

These workshops are run at key times in the first semester to provide additional support to students. Previously, workshops have been held on topics such as first year writing, answering assignment questions and receiving feedback. A law exam workshop was also run.

International study opportunities

In addition to being able to participate in the University's exchange programs, the Adelaide Law School has signed law-only exchanges with Pace University in the United States of America, Copenhagen University in Denmark, Mannheim University in Germany, Poitiers University in France and University of Alberta in Canada.

Students also have the opportunity to apply to undertake law study tours. The most recent law study tour travelled to the United States of America, and included the Pentagon, National Counter Terrorism Centre, State Department, Peace Institute, Australian Embassy, Harvard Law School and the Naval War College to name a few.

For more information on student exchange opportunities, please visit: www.law.adelaide.edu.au/students and select Study Abroad and Exchange from the menu.

Special study programs

Students can participate in Adelaide Law Reform courses and apply to be involved with the Adelaide Law Review, a refereed journal that is published twice a year by the Adelaide Law Review Association.

For more information please visit: www.law.adelaide.edu.au/study and select Why Study at the Adelaide Law School.

Internships/work placement

Students can undertake placements either through an internship program or by choosing the Clinical Legal Education elective. For more information visit: www.law.adelaide.edu.au/study and select Why Study at the Adelaide Law School from the menu.

Scholarships

Scholarships for commencing students

Gilmore Law Scholarship

This scholarship has been established by Miss Jean Gilmore, who was a gifted University of Adelaide Law student who obtained distinguished results. The scholarship is open to first year Bachelor of Laws students who are Commonwealth supported and undertaking full-time study. The value of the scholarship is $5,000 per annum payable for a maximum period of four years. Students undertaking double degrees are eligible to apply, but the maximum duration of the scholarship remains four years.

For more information visit: www.adelaide.edu.au and search 'gilmore scholarship'.

Minter Ellison Law Scholarship

In 2013 Minter Ellison, an international law firm based in Australia, established a scholarship to benefit a student who is in their first year of a Bachelor of Laws program at the University of Adelaide. The scholarship provides $5,000 per year for up to four years to assist with education costs.

For more information please email the Undergraduate Scholarships office at undergraduate_scholarships@adelaide.edu.au or phone (08) 8313 5208.

William Donnithorne Awards

This scholarship is available to assist one Law student to continue their studies at the University of Adelaide.

For more information visit the university website: www.adelaide.edu.au and search 'donnithorne award'.

Charles Allan Seymour Hawker Memorial Scholarship

The Charles Allan Seymour Hawker Memorial Scholarship Trust Fund was established by the late Kathleen Lilius Needham to perpetuate the memory of her late brother Charles Allan Seymour Hawker – scholar, soldier, pastoralist and statesman by means of a scholarship.

The main object today, as it was then, is to encourage others to follow her brother's example of help and service to his country and his fellow men and women.

Fit uni into life

Attendance at university is less structured than time spent at high school. The hours spent on campus in lectures, tutorials, practicals or in the field—known as 'contact hours'—depend on the program students enrol in, study mode selected (internal, external, online or flexible learning) and course choices.

This diary snapshot is only one example of how a student may choose to schedule their university study and life.

Life experience through Global Learning

All students will have the opportunity to study overseas through a range of programs, including student exchange, study tours and summer and winter schools.

There are many exciting opportunities in Europe, Asia, the Americas and Africa.

For information visit:

www.adelaide.edu.au/global-learning

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders

The University of Adelaide values diversity where the rich cultures of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders are taught, supported and celebrated. Wirltu Yarlur provide a range of services, schemes and preparation programs that are designed to support your desire to gain educational outcomes.

Wirltu Yarlur is a place where students can soar to new heights.

For information visit:

www.adelaide.edu.au/wirltu-yarlur

Small group discovery

There is a commitment to give all students the opportunity to learn in small groups, peer-to-peer and under the guidance of leading academics and researchers.

This experience will enhance students initiative and creativity maximising studying in a research intensive university.

For information visit:

www.adelaide.edu.au/VCO/beacon/small-group

Advanced Bachelors

High achieving students who are inspired by the opportunity to contribute to the world's important discoveries and research advancements should consider the Advanced Bachelors degrees.

These programs provide a unique close quarters learning experience with academics of international distinction.

Indicative study-to-career pathways

Degree programs	Potential career opportunities
> Bachelor of Laws	A law degree is highly regarded by government and industry as an invaluable general degree. The advanced research and writing skills that students develop are highly sought after and the knowledge and skills obtained easily transferable. Often it is perceived that students who study law will practise law i.e. they become either a solicitor or barrister. Approximately half of all law graduates in fact do not practise law but instead develop careers in private industry and government which is great if you would like to keep your options open after graduating, or if you aren't sure if you want to practise law upon graduation.
> Bachelor of Laws and Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice	To be admitted as a barrister or solicitor in South Australia you need to complete both a Bachelor of Laws and a Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice. If you want a career in law and to have the option to be admitted to practise, this option allows you to move straight into the Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice at the end of your law studies, with no further applications required.
> Bachelor of Laws combined with another degree	Ideal if you want maximum career flexibility by teaming Law with a specialising career-focused degree.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Arts	In addition to careers available to all Law graduates, the double degree allows students to combine their Law studies with politics or/and a language. Graduates are well placed to pursue careers in a variety of areas including politics and government.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Commerce > Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Economics > Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Finance	In addition to those careers available to all Law graduates, this double degree program opens up many career opportunities in business, finance and commerce, with the possibility of careers in such areas, as merchant banking, international business and money markets
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Computer Science	In addition to those careers available to all Law graduates, the double degree program opens up many career opportunities in intellectual property law, patent law and technology law.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Development Studies	In addition to those careers available to all Law graduates, the double degree program may open up career opportunities across national boundaries. Graduate positions are available in organisations such as the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade and the United Nations, and opportunities exist in aid and development agencies.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Environmental Policy and Management	This program enables students to combine their Law studies with a range of geographical and environmental studies. Graduates are well placed to pursue careers in natural resource management, natural resource planning, catchment management, environmental consulting, environmental management, government or corporate policy advising.
> Bachelor of Laws combined with another degree and the Graduate Diploma of Legal Practice	To be admitted as a barrister or solicitor in South Australia you need to complete both a Bachelor of Laws and a Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice. If you want a career in law and to have the option to be admitted to practise, this option allows you to move straight in to the GDLP at the end of your Law studies, with no further applications required.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Health Sciences	Graduates of this double degree may find careers in the fields of public health policy, patent development and commercial opportunities in the development of new technologies.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of International Studies	Graduates of this double degree may seek opportunities locally or internationally with organisations and agencies, such as the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, the United Nations and the Red Cross.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Mathematical and Computer Sciences	Graduates of this double degree may find career opportunities in fields such as intellectual property law, patent law, business law and technology law.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Media	Graduates of this double degree may find work in the areas of media law, journalism and social media.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Science	Graduates of this double degree may find career opportunities in scientific research and intellectual property law in addition to the other careers available to Law graduates.
> Bachelor of Laws with Bachelor of Social Sciences	This double degree enables students to combine their Law studies with studies in social theory and social policy. Graduates are well placed to pursue careers in a variety of areas, including social planning and government policy making, in addition to the other careers available to Law graduates.

Why study the Bachelor of Laws?

The Adelaide Law School offers a Bachelor of Laws degree (LLB) which can be completed as a single degree or as part of a double degree program. The compulsory requirements of the law degree ensure a thorough grounding in common law principles and legal methodology, while a wide choice of elective courses range from the commercial (e.g. Intellectual Property and Taxation Law) to liberal and socially-oriented topics (such as Family Law and Social Theory). The law degree provides graduates with a rigorous knowledge of the areas of substantive law necessary to undertake legal practice within a broad liberal education.

Program structure

The program consists of a number of compulsory law courses which provide students with a sound understanding of legal concepts, processes and methods. In addition, students choose from a range of elective law courses in areas of specialised interest, including - but not limited to - such areas as Media Law, Law of Work, Immigration and Migration Law, Environmental Law, Human Rights Law, Medical Law and Ethics and Family Law. Students of the four-year undergraduate program can include some non-law electives towards their studies, although these are limited.

If you are a graduate, the duration of the program is three years full-time (or equivalent), as opposed to four years for non-graduates.

Areas of specialisation

A range of elective courses are offered each year and students may select courses from areas of specialisation, including Comparative Law, Corporate/Taxation Law, Criminal Law, Environmental Law, Family Law, Intellectual Property, Labour and Industrial Relations Law, Human Rights and International Law.

Indicative study plans for the Bachelor of Laws double degrees can be found on Degree Finder. Search Laws then select double degrees.

Potential careers

Roles for law graduates are expanding significantly. Those who become lawyers may become involved in court work or may choose to practise as solicitors. Many graduates enter legal practice, but a significant number choose to pursue careers in industry, government, commerce, community organisations or academic institutions. It is the enormous range of options, and the opportunities and influence they afford, that gives a career in law its very distinctive appeal and makes the study of law one of the most popular choices among today's students.

Professional accreditation

The Bachelor of Laws is accredited by the Legal Practitioners' Education and Admission Council in South Australia, and provides the academic foundation for admission to legal practice throughout Australia.

To be admitted to legal practice in Australia, Law graduates must complete further practical legal training. Students intending to seek admission to practise are strongly advised to seek advice from the admitting authority in the relevant jurisdiction.

In South Australia the University of Adelaide and the Law Society of South Australia provides Practical Legal Training through their Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice program. Upon graduation from the Bachelor of Laws and completion of the Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice, students are eligible to be admitted to the Supreme Court of South Australia (with a restricted practising certificate). Once admitted, practitioners may apply for admission in any other Australian jurisdiction. For more information contact: Adelaide Law School Email: lawenquiry@adelaide.edu.au Telephone: +61 8 8313 5063

Work placement

During your study you will be provided with a number of opportunities to undertake a placement either through one of our Internship programs or by undertaking Clinical Legal Education.

Laws double degrees

The Bachelor of Laws may be undertaken with another degree. Approved double degree programs allow students to count designated law courses towards that degree, thereby reducing the time taken to complete both degrees. As an example, a Bachelor of Arts (three years) and Bachelor of Laws (four years) may be completed in five years if studied simultaneously. Please check Degree Finder to ensure prerequisites are met for both degrees: www.adelaide.edu.au/degree-finder

Graduates who complete a double degree are uniquely placed to pursue specialist career opportunities offered beyond the law. Students can choose from a wide range of areas (see table above).

New for 2015 is the option for students to be offered a guaranteed place on the Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice on successful completion of the Bachelor of Laws at the University of Adelaide. This new pathway is perfect for students who want to be able to practise law when they graduate.

Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice

In order to be admitted as a barrister or solicitor in Australia an element of practical training must be undertaken in addition to a Bachelors degree. The Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice provides this practical legal training for Law graduates. Once admitted in South Australia, students can apply for a practising certificate in other States and Territories without seeking further admission.

The Graduate Diploma comprises a core of compulsory courses and a small choice of elective courses that allows students to specialise in a particular area of practice.

Recognising the fact that students may want to work whilst studying, the program is specially designed to be delivered after hours, online, and during the day.

“ After I completed my study at TAFE, I was thrilled to gain a place in the Bachelor of Arts, and from there I combined my studies with a Bachelor of Laws. The move to university was intimidating and the teaching and learning styles were so different. But I found many systems of help for new (and old) students at uni, such as the Writing Centre, the Counselling Service and the staff have been so willing to offer extra help. Overall a good experience and transition from TAFE. ”

This program, known as HECS-HELP assists eligible students to pay their student contribution. Further information is available at: www.studyassist.gov.au

Scholarships

The University of Adelaide has a range of scholarships available to students from a variety of backgrounds and academic levels. Comprehensive information about scholarships, and how to apply, can be obtained by contacting us (refer below for details) or visiting the scholarships website: www.adelaide.edu.au/scholarships

Student Services and Amenities Fee

Students are charged an annual Student Services and Amenities Fee (SSAF) to assist with the funding of student services and amenities at the University. In 2015, the SSAF amount for full-time students was $281, and for part-time students it was $210. Eligible students may defer this fee to an SA-HELP loan. For further information about the SSAF and SA-HELP visit www.adelaide.edu.au/student/finance and select 'Other Fees and Charges'.

Additional costs

Students may be required to pay for specialist equipment, reading materials, etc. Students are advised not to purchase any equipment until they receive their faculty/school handbook, available during orientation. For more information on other program-related fees and charges, visit www.adelaide.edu.au/student/finance, and select 'Other Fees and Charges'.

Bonus points

For 2016 entry, SATAC will centrally administer a new South Australian Universities Bonus Scheme. The two new schemes are the SA Universities Equity Scheme and the SA Language, Literacy and Mathematics Bonus Scheme. For more details, please visit www.adelaide.edu.au and search 'bonus points'.

Program intake

Many undergraduate programs will allow students to begin study in February or July. Please refer to individual programs on Degree Finder (www.adelaide.edu.au/degree-finder) to check whether midyear entry is available. Where Degree Finder states 'subject to availability' applicants should contact Ask Adelaide (refer below for details) to check whether midyear entry is available.

Deferring your studies

Most undergraduate programs can be deferred for up to two years. Please refer to specific programs for exceptions. Music programs may not be deferred.

English language requirements for international students

All international students undertaking an Australian year 12 program are required to achieve a Pass grade or above in one of the approved English as a Second Language or English language subjects. If an applicant attempts, but does not pass, the English language subject then alternative options, such as an acceptable English language proficiency test result, may be arranged. Details of recognised subjects and recognised tests and requirements are available by visiting international.adelaide.edu.au/apply, selecting 'Admissions Information' from the menu, then 'English Language Requirements'. Successful completion of the International Baccalaureate (IB) diploma meets the English language requirements of the University of Adelaide.

Permanent residency

International students who have studied an Australian year 12 program or the IB and expect to be granted Australian permanent residency before the commencement of their university study must contact the International Office. To contact the International Office for more information, visit international.adelaide.edu.au, select 'About Us' from the menu, then 'International Office' and 'Enquire Now'.
