STRETTON INSTITUTE WEBINAR DIMINISHING PUBLIC TRUST? PUSHBACK AGAINST ICAC?

Recent amendments to the Independent Commissioner against Corruption Act in South Australia have narrowed definitions of misconduct, maladministration and corruption reducing the ICAC's powers. This pushback is examined in this webinar. Had the ICAC over-reached? Did it need its wings clipped? Or might something else have been in play?

These questions are explored by a distinguished panel moderated by Professor Lisa Hill, a world authority on democracy and political behaviour. Speakers include two former Supreme Court judges and the Director of the Stretton Institute. Invitations to speak have been sent to members of the SA parliament.
