The University of Adelaide GRADUATION TRADITIONS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF COUNTRY

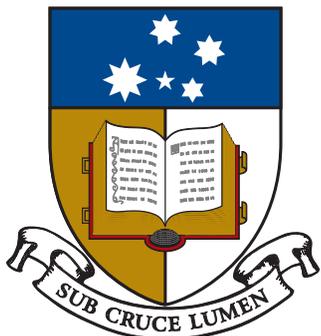

Ngadlurlu Kurna miyurna tampinhi.
Parna yarta mathanya Wama Tarntanyaku.

University of Adelaide Kurna yartangka yuwanthi – Tarntanyangga (North Terrace), Waitengga, Thebartonilla, Roseworthyngga kuma. (Lit. the University of Adelaide stands on Kurna land in Adelaide (North Terrace, Waite, Thebarton and Roseworthy.)

We acknowledge the Kurna people past and present, the original custodians of the Adelaide plains and the land on which the University of Adelaide campuses are built.

COAT OF ARMS

The University of Adelaide's coat of arms was granted to the University by the College of Arms, London, in 1925. It is the official symbol of the University and the stamp which ratifies every degree parchment bestowed by the University.

The crest or shield displays an open book and five stars; one of eight, two of seven, one of six and one of five points – representing the Southern Cross. A scroll containing the University's Latin motto sits directly below the shield; Sub Cruce Lumen, meaning 'The light (of learning) under the (Southern) Cross'.

BONYTHON HALL

Bonython Hall is the University of Adelaide's "great hall". It was built in the years of 1933-1936 using a generous donation of over £50,000 from renowned public benefactor Sir John Langdon Bonython.

Planned construction of Bonython Hall was surrounded in controversy. Colonel William Light, Surveyor-General for the City of Adelaide, had an original vision to extend Pulteney Street north towards North Adelaide. The Adelaide City Council was keen to see his plans carried out.

Following much debate, it was City Alderman and lawyer George McEwin who was able to convince the City Council of the University's master plan and evolving architectural beauty. Further, he pointed out that the City Council had no legal prerogative to construct roads on the private property of the University.

Consequently construction of the great hall began. This proved a critical juncture in the University's history - resulting in the University of Adelaide expanding to become one of the most picturesque campuses in the country today.

Today, Bonython Hall is home to all onshore graduation ceremonies and a number of official University events, including the annual Carols on Campus event in December.

ABOUT THE ORGAN

The organ in Bonython Hall was installed in 2002. Made in England to a tonal design by the leading Dutch firm Johannus Orgelbouw, it uses custom-built speakers to reproduce digital recordings of individual organ pipes with the acoustic qualities of a piped instrument. The four manual instrument is the largest of its type in Australia.

UNIVERSITY MACE

Thousands of years ago the Mace, a heavy club weighted at one end, was used as a blunt weapon in battle. In the sixteenth century the Mace came to be used more ceremonially – representing a symbol of protection of the King. Today, the Mace is celebrated as a symbol and warrant of office, particularly of royal or ecclesiastical office, and of institutions deriving authority from the Crown or Church.

The University of Adelaide Mace was designed by Mr I. Milward Grey of the School of Fine Arts, North Adelaide, and was made under his personal supervision by an Adelaide firm of silversmiths.

The Mace is 24 inches in length and is made of silver gilt throughout. Seventy-three ounces, just over 2kg, of metal was used in its manufacture. The Mace head forms an orb, representing the world, and features a book, a symbol of learning, and a design of gum leaves on matted ground. On either side of the orb, the University's Coat of Arms is featured along with the motto: Sub Cruce Lumen.

The University Mace was first carried by President of the Students Council, K H Boykett, at a Jubilee procession at St Peter's Cathedral in 1926, marking the 50th anniversary since classes first commenced.

The traditional role of the Mace Bearer in the University of Adelaide graduation ceremony is to protect the Chancellor, meaning the bearer of the Mace always precedes the Chancellor in the academic procession.

ACADEMIC DRESS

Academic dress, including the full-length robe, hood and classical headwear, dates back to the medieval 12th and 13th centuries in Europe when universities, as we know them today, were developing.

The regalia were originally worn daily by university scholars for reasons of warmth and to reflect their status in society. The sense of purpose and propriety evoked by formal academic dress has ensured the tradition has been preserved over the centuries.

In contemporary times, academic dress is largely reserved for graduation ceremonies and formal university events.

Gown

University of Adelaide graduates wear black gowns in the Cambridge style, with the exception of:

- Professional Doctorate and PhD candidates whose gowns are black and faced with scarlet
- Higher Doctorate and Doctor of the University candidates who wear scarlet gowns faced respectively with the colour of their discipline or ultramarine blue.

Hood

Professional Certificate and Sub-bachelor graduates do not wear a hood.

Other graduates wear a black hood that displays a colour representative of their discipline area, except that:

- Postgraduate coursework candidates wear a black hood lined in white
- Research masters wear a black hood lined in scarlet
- PhD, Higher Doctorate and Doctor of the University candidates wear a scarlet hood lined in scarlet.

Headwear

Graduates receiving a Professional Certificate, Sub-bachelor Certificate or Diploma, Bachelor, Honours, Graduate Certificate or Diploma or Masters qualification wear a black trencher cap or mortarboard.

Graduates receiving a Professional Doctorate, PhD, Higher Doctorate, Doctor of Medicine or a Doctor of the University wear a bonnet of black velvet.

Dr Weidong Liang

For a thesis entitled: Agriculture, Income and Conflicts

Thesis abstract: This thesis examines the link between agriculture, income and conflicts. There are five chapters in the thesis. Chapter one provides statistical evidence of armed conflicts in the world. Chapter two offers a literature review of the interrelationship between agriculture, income and armed conflicts. Chapter three investigates thoroughly the effect of rainfall shocks on conflicts. Chapter four explores the impact of enhancing agricultural productivity on conflicts. Economic and econometric models are developed to show that improving agricultural productivity through the legalization of genetically modified soybeans in Brazil can reduce conflicts. Chapter five is the conclusive chapter.

Dr Brendan Joseph Rynne

For a thesis entitled: The Role of the Services Sector in Growing the Australian Economy

Thesis abstract: The service-producing sector increasingly plays a dominant role in promoting growth and improving living standards. Early theorists initially struggled to recognise explicitly the importance of services. This literature is reviewed and a methodology is developed to explain variations in the size of the sector and its contribution to growth. A cross-country empirical analysis is then applied which suggests Australia's services sector as a whole is "underweight" compared to its expected share of GDP.

Dr Wenxiao Wang

For a thesis entitled: Essays on the Value-added Trade, Wage Inequality and Servicification of Manufacturing in the Global Value Chains

Thesis abstract: This thesis provides theoretical and empirical evidence to three particular questions in the global value chains (GVCs): (a) the role of human capital in determining the international fragmentation patterns and bilateral value-added trade across countries; (b) the impacts of GVC activities on the wage inequality of skills within firms; (c) the ever-strengthening intersectoral production linkages between manufacturing and services in GVCs (servicification of manufacturing).
